Korian appoints Ralf Stiller as CEO of Korian Germany

Korian Group announces the appointment of Ralf Stiller as CEO for Korian Germany and Group Executive Committee member. Responsible for all of the Group's activities in Germany, Ralf Stiller will be tasked with overseeing the merger of the Curanum and Casa Reha groups, as well as effectively and efficiently organizing the management of the 216 facilities that Korian Group now has in Germany. He will also ensure that the division's 25,000 residents and their families receive the highest quality of service on a daily basis whilst pursuing the ambitious growth dynamic anticipated by the Group, the leading private operator of long term care nursing homes and assisted living facilities in Germany.

Sophie Boissard, CEO of Korian says: "I am delighted with the arrival of Ralf Stiller to lead Korian's German operations. Ralf Stiller is a recognized and valued manager who knows Korian Group well. During his 25 years' experience in the health and nursing home sector, he has repeatedly demonstrated his talents as a developer and his ability to successfully complete mergers and integrations. I have every confidence in him, and the highly capable team he will be developing, to pursue and boost the trend of profitable growth in Korian's activities in Germany, whilst remaining at the service of our clients and in full cooperation with our public and private partners, and with the support of the Beirat, led by Professor Norbert Klusen."

Ralf Stiller (49) has a degree in finance, marketing and health economics, is an experienced health and nursing home sector professional in Germany, where he has spent his entire career. Notably, he managed the Phoenix Group from 2007 to 2013 before founding a consulting and development organization that he has been managing until today.
